

Youth Improvisation

Ages 11-14 (6-8 Grade)

A take-off on the popular “Whose Line Is It Anyway?” show, this class will give participants an opportunity to hone their improvisational skills in a humorous, playful, nonjudgmental, and supportive setting. The acting exercises, drama games and scene work are designed to encourage young actors to take creative risks, while increasing their improvisational comfort level and self-confidence.

Participants will increase their listening and collaborative skills, as well as verbal and physical confidence on stage. Participants will visit Hampshire College for a fun evening of Improv with Hampshire students and perform for a young audience. Informal demo at last class. $10 Lab fee due at first class.

Becca Greene-Van Horn, MA, RDT/BCT, LCAT, worked as a professional actress, has taught drama to children for over 25 years, is Adjunct Professor at Lesley University, Professional Coach and Licensed Drama Therapist (NY).

Tuesdays 4:00 PM – 5:30 PM
September 23 -November 25
No class Oct. 14, Nov. 11
Bangs Community Center

$124

To register, call LSSE at 413-259-3065 or visit www.lsse.org

Not a school sponsored event

